Residency: Jules Stein Eye Institute, UCLA

Languages Spoken: English, Spanish
Hobbies: Cycling, Hiking, Adventure travel

"I do my best to provide patient-centered care by involving the patient in shared decision-making through communication of clinical status, prognosis, alternatives, and processes of care. I value coordination of care with the patient's other healthcare providers and family."

T. Daniel Ting, MD PhD

Undergraduate: University of Chicago
Medical School: University of Illinois
Residency: Cleveland Clinic Foundation

Languages Spoken: English, Mandarin
Hobbies: Woodworking, Golf, Photography, Bird watching, Astronomy

"I treat patients as individuals who have unique medical needs. It is paramount to develop a partnership with patients based on open communication to help them understand their medical condition and for me to understand their needs. By having patients as equal and active participants in their care, a treatment plan that is best catered to them can be developed to achieve the most favorable outcome."
